

Planning the growth of the community is becoming more important as North Carolina moves ahead in its economy development. In order that the state remain attractive for people and firms alike, we must look to our future needs. If this is not done, taxes will be higher, there will be more slums, higher crime rates, and more congestion and confusion than would otherwise occur. Orderly, efficient, and economical growth is the watchword of today's progressive North Carolina cities and counties. The following text is the planning board's recommendation to the City Council and the County Commissioners for the future development and growth of the Roxboro Township Area.
